The What, Why, and How

We all thrive on routines especially our children. Adding a routine to your schedule helps them get reading practice and most importantly, fall in love with reading.

Pick one or two places that you can find a pocket of time to read with your children. It could be right before bed or right after dinner. It's super helpful to connect the new reading habit with a habit you already have in place.

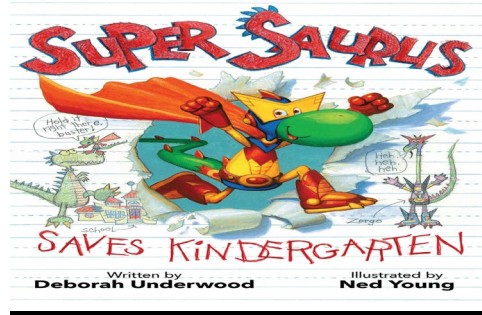

So, reading right after they finish brushing their teeth or clearing the table from dinner, signals it is time to read.

It can take over 2 months for a habit to become automatic. Stay focused
